About our Clothing. We should say every day till everybody within trading distance should have read it. How well we suit people with READY-MADE CLOTHING. No one sort of people, but all sorts. We have spared no efforts nor outlay to accomplish what we have in Clothing for man or boy, and how well we have succeeded is evidenced by the hundreds of regular patrons who have tested the merits of our wares. There is nothing that careful people are less impressible about than the fit and style of Ready-made Clothing. No wonder, either. There is nothing that requires such careful attention on the part of purchasers as Ready-made Clothing for man or boy, and unless one patronizes only a very reliable as Ready-made Clothing for man or boy, and unless one patronizes only a very reliable house, where the greatest care is taken in every particular and have the proper fit and proper material made up into first-class garments, the result is very unsatisfactory. There is no garment, no matter the cost, that is allowed to enter our stock except such that is well made, properly finished and of reliable material. Custom department, second floor.

CITY AND DISTRICT. SISTERS OF ST. MARGARET.

House of a Famous Order to be Established in St. James' Parish.

The members of St. James' Protestant Episco oal parish are much pleased at the prospect of having in their parish, in connection with their church on 8th street east, a house of the Sister-

SISTERHOODS IN THE ENGLISH CHURCH. and St. Mary's, the last named having originated in America. These various sisterhoods have houses in England, Scotland, Canada, South Africa, the United States, India, and many other parts of the world. The numbers of the sisters and their influence is growing daily throughout the church. The first English sisterhoods met with many trials and discouragements on account of the history of many agements on account of the bigotry of mem-bers of the church, and many of their members were publicly insulted in the streets of London and elsewhere. This opposition has now entirely passed away, and now, in many dioceses in which houses have not been established, great eagerness is manifested to secure the presence of the sisters.

HOW THE SISTERHOOD WAS FOUNDED. first sister.' He accepted her offer gladly and from this small beginning the sisterhood of St. The chief duty of the sisters was the nursing of the sick poor in their own homes, and in the performance of such duties the sisters were constantly exposed to danger. Dr. Neale did not believe that women could bear such trials unless strengthened by the highest spiritual privi-leges. The sisterhood, with its habit and discipline, was therefore founded upon the lines laid down by him. The sisters of St. Margaret, true to the original character of the order, still devote themselves to nursing, and especially in cases of contagious diseases. They appeared at Memphis when the yellow fever ravaged that city and several members of the order have been detailed for work in Canada during the prevalence of smallpox there. In addition to such duties, however, they conduct schools, work upon church embroideries, and engage in various charitable works in the parishe where their houses are to be found. Their principal house in America's in Boston, and is connected with the Church of the Advent." dark brown cloth, with a black veil to drape their heads. There are among the ladies of Washington several associate members of the washington several associate members of the sisterhood who are not under the discipline, but enjoy certain of the privileges of the sisterhood. The members of the sisterhood take upon themselves obligations of celibacy, and are under discipline very much like that of the Sisters of Charity of the Roman Catholicaburab Sisters of Charity of the Roman Catholic church.

"The beginning of the sisterhood here," said the member of St. James, "will be in the same small way as that of the church itself. A small house will be rented by the Sisters, such as their means will justify, until a proper and convenient house can be erected in connection with the various buildings of the parish."

TROOPS TO PROTECT THE INDIANS .- Two troops of cavalry, numbering 105 officers and men, and three companies of infantry, consist men, and three companies of infantry, consist-ing of 100 officers and men, left San Francisco yesterday for Fort Bowie, Arizona. Two com-panies of infantry from Benicia barracks, Cal., and one company each from Fort Halleck, Nev., and San Diego, will depart to-day for the same place. This movement of troops is in accord-ance with instructions received from the Secre-tary of War, who acted in response to a request tary of War, who acted in response to a request from Gov. Zuilch, of Arizona, for protection for the Indians on the San Carlos reservation from an attack by white settlers.

THE FISK JUBILEE SINGERS AT HAYES' HOME.—A special from Fremont, Ohio, referring to the statement recently made by a member of the Fisk University Jubilee Singers, colored, that they had been subjected to gross indignities at Fremont, the home of ex-Presiindignities at Fremont, the home of ex-President Hayes, says the statement is utterly false. When the Fisk Jubilee Singers gave a concert there, two or three years ago, the troupe were entertained at private houses, several being taken care of by the family of ex-President Hayes. This was done, not because the hotels refused them accommodations, but simply to save expenses to the missionary organization that employed the troupe on that occasion.

Teport showed that the society has 130 members. The report contained a recommendation that the society publish a series of monographs on the geology of the North American coasts. President Gilbert read his annual address, touching upon the work of teachers and of investigation. The society elected the following officers: President, G. K. Gilbert, of Washington; vice presidents, Prof. E. D. Cope and Dr. Harrison Allen, of Philadelphia, and Prof. EARTHQUAKE SHOCKS.—Several sharp shocks of earthquake were felt in Hartiord, Conn., Tuesday morning, between 4:30 and 5:30 o'clock. The inhabitants of Bloomington, Ill., were alarmed Monday night by an earthquake shock, the noise accompanying it resembling closely that made by the firing of artillery. No damage was done to property, although, the force of the shock was distinctly felt in several large buildings.

As is known, the country is divided into four sections, and each year contracts are awarded for carrying the mails in one of these sections for the four ensuing years. The value of the service thus contracted for is about three millions of dollars, which the government pays in addition to the compensation given to railroads, which forms another branch of the mail service. The western section comprises all the country west of the Missouri, and the railroad service is probable ably less than in any other section, I have always reasoned them out of killing the of the mail service. "Why are Spitz dogs regarded as more daugerous than other dogs?"

"This country, in my opinion," said the poundmaster, "is too warm for Spitz dogs. When there was some excitement over Spitz dogs, several years ago, a good many such dogs were taken to the pound. In proportion to their numbers, we have killed more Spitz dogs than black and tan or Scotch terriers. I do not remember of any such dog being redeemed or called for at the pound unless it was a licensed dog. I do not think there are many in the city now—not more than flity. These dogs have a great profit on every one of his contracts. In fact, he could not do it if he chose, because in order to get the contract he is obliged to bid low in order to beat the local competitor, or the man who will actually do the service, and the consequence is that the actual mail carrier has the great satisfaction, while going through with the fatigue of performing the service, of knowing that the profit is going into the pockets of some one else, while he is barely making his expenses. Naturally the local mail carrier hates the general or speculative bidder, but he brings the cost of the service down to the government and that is a great consideration. Various measures now—not more than fifty. These dogs have a peculiarly shaped head, and are vicious little things, and their bite is more apt to be poisonous than that of others. "No," said Mr. Einstein, "I do not think there is any possibility of hydrophobia spreading to any extent in this city. I think the chances of an outbreak of hydrophobia are less here than in any other city, for this is the only city, I believe, where dogs are captured and taken to the pound the whole year round.
